

The T&S Experience | Gas Hoses

Supplying the finest in gas hoses

For Stuart Crandell, there's no substitute for a gas hose from T&S. "In 40 years of doing business," he says, "I've bought every gas hose in the industry. This one is the best. No one has anything better. In fact, I refuse to buy any gas line other than T&S."

A hose that's built to last

For a gas hose, high quality isn't just an extra frill: it can mean the difference between life and death. Since each hose carries flowing natural gas within a critical workspace and often near an open flame, there is no room for a product with even a minimal record of failure.

"In all the years I've sold the T&S Safe-T-Link gas hose," says Crandell, "I've never had one failure. That's impressive."

In his experience, the T&S hose has construction quality that leaves its competitors far behind. The internal hose is engineered to be both flexible and durable and puts less stress on the line. The stainless steel mesh reinforces it with strength and the extruded coating makes it easy to keep clean.

In addition, the fittings are high quality brass, and every important part is clearly labeled.

"T&S simply has a different way of putting things together," according to Crandell. "And that makes their hose much stronger and gives it more integrity."

In his career, Stuart has worked in restaurants nearly every workday, so he has seen the high demands that a gas hose needs to support, flawlessly, for decades. In all that time, he's never found a gas hose that could match the T&S Safe-T-Link for quality and performance.

Support you can count on

The T&S gas hose is in a class by itself for more than its product performance, though. According to Crandell, it is easy to use and simple to install. Even the packaging is higher quality, with individual parts separated in labeled boxes, and straightforward instructions to aid in installation.

Shipping time is also rapid, and with T&S Quick Ship, you can often have the hose the very next day. With competitive prices and T&S legendary customer service added to the mix, it's no surprise customers like Stuart Crandell are so loyal.

"If I put in an order for a T&S Safe-T-Link," he claims, "I know it's out the door that day. I've never heard of a failure on this hose — not from anyone in my large customer base. It's such a great product, I don't know how they could possibly improve on it."

When it comes to gas hoses, why settle for anything less than the best, especially when they deliver such a vital service? You won't find a higher quality, better performing gas hose anywhere than the T&S Safe-T-Link gas hose.
